WALTER D. COLES TO BE APPOINTED TO SUPREME BENCH

Former Referee in Bankruptcy Selected for Place to Which Late John T. Fitzsimmons Was Elected

HE IS 66, WAS IN U. S. POST 36 YEARS

Appointment Will Be For Two Years, and Election for Eight-Year Remainder of Term Will Be in 1936.

Walter D. Coles, former Referee in Bankruptcy, will be appointed Judge of the Supreme Court of Missouri to fill the vacancy caused by the death of John T. Fitzsimmons, Gov. Park announced here today.

The Governor, who came to St. Louis for a visit last night, said the formal appointment would be made at Jefferson City Monday. He talked with Coles today.

Coles, who will be 67 years old tomorrow, had not been mentioned publicly in advance discussions of those under consideration by the Governor. He retired as Referee in Bankruptcy Feb. 1, after 36 years' service.

Judge Fitzsimmons, Democrat, who had been a Commissioner of the Supreme Court, died Nov. 10, 1934. The appointment of Coles will be for a two-year membership in Division No. 1 of the court. The place will be filled for the eight-year remainder of the term at the general election of November, 1936.

To remove any doubt as to the power of the Governor to fill the place, Frank E. Atwood, Republican, resigned as a Judge, effective Dec. 31, when he would have been succeeded by Judge Fitzsimmons.

Coles, a Democrat, resides at 3737 Washington boulevard.

Appointment of Frank P. Aschmeyer, St. Louis lawyer, who recently prevented the grand jury from obtaining ballot boxes in its investigation of primary election frauds, had been recommended to Gov. Park by 39 of the 56 members of the Democratic City Committee.

Aschmeyer for Aschmeyer was presented to the Governor by Chairman Hunsinger of the committee and Justice of the Peace Jimmy Miller, Fourth Ward Democratic Committeeman and boss of the river wards.

Asked today why he had ignored his recommendation, the Governor said he had no comment.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 5.—A virtual cloudburst struck Southern California early today. In the downtown area of Los Angeles, basements of several business establishments were put out of order temporarily.

In the Sierra Madre foothills, scene of the destructive flood of a year ago New Year's day, residents were being warned to leave their homes. The rain was reported heavy back in the mountains.

NAZIS, ANTI-NAZIS RALLY TOMORROW IN SAARBRUECKEN

Precautions Taken to Keep Crowds From Clashing—

80 SPECIAL TRAINS
FOR GERMAN FRONT

Opposing Group in Plebiscite
Charters 15—Armored
Cars Arrive for Use of Foreign Troops.

By the Associated Press.
SAARBRUECKEN, Saar Basin Territory, Jan. 5.—The territory was generally calm today and only the presence of foreign newspapermen in Saarbruecken and the arrival of a squadron of armored cars of the international army gave any indication of the approach of the plebiscite a week from tomorrow.

The only disorder reported took place last night in Steinbach, a small town near the German frontier. Several men distributing pamphlets were beaten, and half a dozen shots were fired to frighten them. No one was injured.

The Nazis, who have ordered 80 special trains for their incoming contingents, will meet east of the town at 10 a. m. and must finish by noon. The anti-Nazi Communist Front, which has ordered 15 trains, will gather on the other side of town at 2 p. m.

No Hot Milk for Anti-Nazis.
As the campaign of rivalry went on, the Nazis won a small victory by inducing the municipal dairy to refuse to deliver 3000 quarts of hot milk to the anti-Nazi rally.

The Nazis, too, were striving vigorously to get the votes of the American soldiers here, housing and feeding them with funds because of exchange difficulties, in addition to paying their ocean passage. Three New Yorkers, two Chicagoans and two arrivals from Buenos Aires were in the "breadlines."

The Americans found their difficulties lessening as German authorities relaxed stringent exchange regulations, permitting the visitors to cross the border with cash. They blocked mark travelers' checks and return with more than the legal 50 marks.

G. O. P. PROTEST ON COMMITTEE DELAYS WORK IN THE HOUSE

Republicans Demand Time to Select Slate for Appropriations Group.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—House Republicans' dissatisfaction with committee arrangements yesterday caused Democratic leaders to postpone for another day the time for consideration of the first bill. The change in schedule meant that the House would not get down to work until Tuesday.

The large Democratic majority took the first step toward reducing Republican membership on committees. Shouting down the Republicans, who were so few their "No" could scarcely be heard, the Democrats elected 26 Democrats to the Appropriations Committee.

In doing it, they took five places formerly held by Republicans, reducing the minority vote to nine. That made the ratio about 3 to 1, in line with the 322 to 102 proportion in the House.

The Republicans charge they were not notified of the caucus, so had no names to offer for the Appropriations Committee. Chairman Buchanan (Dem.), Texas, decided to defer action until the Republicans are elected.

Democrats named to the committee include Cannon of Missouri, Westerman of Virginia, Arnold of Illinois, Parks of Arkansas and McAndrews of Illinois.

BASIC NEW DEAL TEST UP IN SUPREME COURT

One Question Involved Is Congress' Delegation of Power to President.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—The Government carried to the Supreme Court yesterday one of the broad basic tests of New Deal legislation in its appeal from the decision of the United States District Judge W. I. Grubb of Birmingham, Ala., holding that the National Industrial Recovery Act exceeded Congress' constitutional powers. Judge Grubb also held that the law unconstitutionally delegated legislative powers to the President.

The ruling was given in dismissing an indictment against William E. Belcher, a lumberman charged with violation of wage and hour provisions of the lumber code. The Government charged that Belcher had violated the code by an unlawful encroachment on states' rights and constituted taking property without due process of law.

The NRA had picked the Belcher case for a decisive test even before Judge Grubb gave his sweeping ruling.

TWO SHIPS WITH 60 ABOARD MISSING IN PACIFIC STORM

By the Associated Press.
SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 5.—Contact with the British tanker La Cresentia with 35 men aboard and unreported for two weeks and the steam schooner Dan F. Hanlon, manned by a crew of 25, was sought today as a lashing Pacific storm swept inland.

Two other vessels, the British steamer Langley Crag and the sailing ship Mary Dollar, were in need of aid. The Langley Crag, 2500 miles west of Seattle, reported in distress messages relayed to Seattle that it was drifting helplessly with its propeller gone. The Mary Dollar was tugging at its anchor south of Point Reyes, north of the Golden Gate, with a Coast Guard cutter standing by.

Buffeted by the storm, the Mary Dollar broke from the tow of the Dan F. Hanlon after leaving San Francisco for San Pedro yesterday. The Dan F. Hanlon then vanished in fog and driving rain. The tanker La Cresentia has not been heard of since she left San Luis Obispo two weeks ago with a load of oil for Osaka, Japan.

The fishing boat, Victor, caught fire in the gale and burned to the water's edge off Santa Monica, Cal. Another, the Virginia III, was tossed onto a Point Reyes beach from which it was later pulled by a Coast Guard cutter. Six men aboard the two boats were rescued.

HOW LEADERS IN HOUSE, SENATE REGARD MESSAGE

'Sound on Principles and Legislation Proposed,
Says Senator Robinson,
Democratic Chieftain.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Democratic members of Congress commented approvingly today on the message of President Roosevelt.

A few Republicans did, also, but many of them qualified their approval. Some of it seemed too fantastic and impractical of successful operation. For instance, I think the President underestimated the unemployed."

Senator McNary of Oregon, Republican leader, "Forward-looking," Senator Johnson (Rep.), California: "An inspiring message worthy of a great President."

Senator Borah (Rep.), Idaho: "The principles which the President announces to govern public works are excellent. But unfortunately we will have to supply both the dole and public works for a while."

Senator Norris (Rep.), Nebraska: "I did not hear anything I did not agree with."

Senator Couzens (Rep.), Michigan: "The President's message is no doubt as to what he proposes for the future. His message will be welcomed by those who are interested in his security program; the unemployed will rejoice in his proposals; business men will understand the Government will continue to help and at the same time will know that much is expected from them. He has satisfied me in the past, his message satisfies me now, and I see no reason why I should not continue my past policy by following him in the future."

Representative Ruml (Dem.) of Missouri: "I do not recall having heard the delivery from any President of a stronger and more comprehensive message. I do not believe any message has been delivered by any President in peace time in this country that has met a more hearty approval. A very distinctive feature, in my opinion, is that he does not believe in the Government entering into competition with private business any further than is necessary and essential under the existing circumstances. It can be read quite plainly in his message that the Government will have to step forward and give employment and governmental aid and employment in the same field will be withdrawn."

The Lindbergh baby was taken from the nursery shown in lower right-hand corner of upper floor plan. Below, the murdered Lindbergh baby's thumbprint, introduced in evidence yesterday. It was found in the yard a month after the kidnapping.

Mississippi: "A great state paper." Senator Capper (Rep.) of Kansas: "The President's message was a very human document that will appeal strongly to the country. It outlines desirable and worthwhile objectives, and outlines the Government's understanding. The means that are to be used to attain those objectives will, of course, have to be scrutinized carefully and judgment passed on each measure as it comes up for consideration."

How Business Regards Message.
Wall Street business and financial leaders, who would discuss the message, for the most part either spoke favorably, or said that its effect upon business and finance would not be great.

O. L. Bardo, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, said Mr. Roosevelt was in harmony with the recent conference of industrialists at White Sulphur Springs, Va., on these points: "That as rapidly as possible relief be returned to local and private agencies."

Dr. Marcus Noller, New York economist and assistant director of the Institute of International Finance, said the program advanced by the President was a judicious "mixture of conservation and radicalism," with the former predominating.

Dr. Cutting (Rep.) of New Mexico: "A fine message on a whole. I don't want to go too far until I see the special recommendations. I don't know why they should set a lower standard of subordination in these public projects than in private industry."

ENVOY DECLARES ONLY ALARMISTS MISTRUST JAPAN

Ambassador Saito Says His Country Has No Aggressive
Designs on the Far East.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Ambassador Hiroshi Saito of Japan told the Foreign Policy Association today that Japan had no imperialistic designs on the Far East or any intention of jeopardizing the principle of the "open door" in China.

"It is impossible," he declared, "for Japan to be a menace to you and I know that you do not wish to be a menace to my country."

Discussing what he termed "the principal misgivings" of the American people regarding Japan's demands for naval parity and Japan's denunciation to end the Washington treaty, Saito said they were largely on Japanese policy in the Far East and China.

Ridicule "Japanese Menace."
"As to the first point," he said, "I will most emphatically say that Japan has no aggressive or imperialistic designs on the Far East or anywhere else. . . . The Japanese menace looms up only when seen through alarmists' spectacles."

"Had we been aggressive or had we been imperialistic in various occasions, we need not have approved the development of a Manchurian Chinese Government in the new state of Manchukuo. To those who are willing to look fairly at our history, it seems to be the facts are obvious."

His Idea of "Open Door."
"As to the second anxiety, it is first necessary to examine the exact meaning of the time-honored term 'the open door.' It came into being at the time when China was partitioned into 'spheres' of influence by Great Britain, France, Italy and Germany. Japan had no part in that partitioning. . . . The American policy in the Far East had long been that of equality of commercial opportunity, as it was thought that such equality of rights and interests in the 'open door' should not prejudice that American principle."

"The announcement by Secretary of State John Hay in 1899 of the principle of the open door presaged the coming of a new era of influence. With the disappearance of those 'spheres' in later years, the open door policy has become synonymous with 'commercial fairness and justice.'"

VOY DECLARES ONLY ALARMISTS MISTRUST JAPAN

ambassador Saito Says His Country Has No Aggressive Designs on the Far East.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Ambassador Hiroshi Saito of Japan told the Foreign Policy Association today that Japan had no imperialistic designs on the Far East or any intention of jeopardizing the principle of the "open door" in China, "is impossible," he declared, "Japan to be a menace to you, I know that you do not want a menace to my country."

Discussing what he termed "the imperialist misgivings" of the American people regarding Japan's designs for naval parity and Japan's intention to end the Washington treaty, Saito said they dwell on Japanese policy in the East and China.

Addressing "Japanese Menace," Saito said "to the first point," he said, "I will most emphatically say that Japan has no aggressive or imperialistic designs on the Far East anywhere else." The Japanese menace exists only when through a misunderstanding of the Japanese mind, it has been aggressive and already have gone far beyond the development of Manchuria and Chinese Government.

The American policy in the Far East had long been that of equal commercial opportunity, and was thought that those special interests and interests in the "sphere of influence" should not prejudice American principle.

The announcement by Secretary of State John Hay in 1899 of the principle of the open door precluded the existence of the "sphere of influence." With the disappearance of those "spheres" in later years, the open door policy has been synonymous with "commercial equality and justice."

"Charges Repeated." Japan has in the past been frequently charged with violations of principle of the open door and of opportunity. These charges have been repeated in many of the reports prepared by American consular officials.

If the plants now advanced by foreign interests are well founded and genuine, the situation will surely be settled.

"I am right in stating that the door and equal opportunity in her name for commercial justice and fairness, it seems to me, it is a matter always to be reached through the diplomatic and if any questions should never be settled by navy."

SURVIVOR TELLS OF FRANTIC SIGNALS

Craft, Loaded With Catch Made Off Yucatan, Goes Down Quickly in Shark-Infested Sea.

By the Associated Press. HAVANA, Jan. 5.—Seven members of the crew of the Cuban fishing smack Julian Bengoechea were missing today after the little vessel had been rammed in the dark by the SS Seatrain Havana.

The fishing craft, broken in two, went down in a few minutes. Five survivors were rescued from the water by a boat crew from the larger vessel. The companions, including Capt. Jesus Paz, apparently were drowned.

Besides Capt. Paz, a Spaniard, those missing were Manuel Gelpi, Pedro Acosta, Carlos Figueroa and Jesus Bernal, Spaniards, and Raul Charlie and Manuel Manjar, Cubans.

Joaquin Anido, one of the survivors, told of the collision.

"We saw we were going to be hit," he said, "and we tried to signal the man on the bridge of the Seatrain. It bore down on us as we waved our lanterns and shouted, but it struck amidships."

"We went down in a few seconds and I grabbed a torn life preserver and a piece of debris. One of my comrades had nothing to hold to, so I gave him the debris. The other seven were lost. The water was full of sharks and it was rough and dark."

"We had been fishing off the Yucatan coast for 36 days and had 26,000 pounds of fish aboard. The smack was worth $18,000."

The Seatrain Havana was bound for New York with a cargo of loaded freight cars.

SUSPECT IN OFFICER'S MURDER CAPTURED; MOB BURNS CABIN

Man Said to Admit Killing Arkansas Deputy Taken to Prison for Safekeeping.

BATESVILLE, Ark., Jan. 5.—A man who said he was Robert Rose, 27 years old, former Louisiana convict, was captured and taken to a mountain shack near Batesville and admitted, officers said, the killing of Deputy Sheriff W. Everett Wheeler last Wednesday. After the capture a mob burned the cabin and a net to serve warrants officers said they found a cache of stolen goods.

Officers rushed Rose 150 miles across the State to the penitentiary at Tucker for safekeeping and placed him in the death house cell.

National Guardsmen and 500 armed citizens had been searching the hill country around Batesville since Wednesday, when the shack was surrounded and its occupants for a minor charge, was shot to death. "In addition to Rose, nine others are held, five charged with being accessories to the murder of Wheeler, and four on charges of receiving stolen property."

Rose was captured by a selected group of officers about a mile from the place where Wheeler was killed. Officers followed bloodhounds to the cabin and surprised Rose asleep in a pile of cotton. Rose, covered with mud, jumped up and threw a pistol away and shouted, "don't shoot."

Kansans Killing Jackrabbits to Feed to Hogs

JACKRABBITS became so numerous in Western Kansas that farmers of Kearney and Finney counties are holding giant drives. In one month they have killed more than 16,000 to feed to hogs, as the rabbits weigh about six pounds, they need 48 to 60 of feed. Farmers are shown closing in, driving rabbits into a pen; below they are clubbing them to death. No guns are used in the drive.

HEARING IS ORDERED ON COUNTY CLINICS

Health Commissioner and Judges to Discuss Proposed Economies.

The St. Louis County Court instructed Health Commissioner Obrock yesterday to appear before the court Monday to discuss a plan to combine the Health Department clinics with similar clinics operated by County Hospital. Dr. Obrock also was instructed to bring with him a list of department employees. He will be asked to explain the functions and salaries of each, with a view of effecting economies in administration.

The court's action followed a conference of its members Thursday with Dr. E. T. McGaugh, State Health Commissioner, who told them, members said, that clinics were not essential in county health departments, whose chief functions are disease prevention. County Judge Tighe said it was thought an annual saving of as much as $40,000 might be effected by combining the clinics.

The judges also said Dr. McGaugh told them that positions of Health Commissioner and Superintendent of the Hospital could not be combined because of the county's agreement with the State, whereby the latter pays half of the Health Commissioner's salary. The court plans, however, to move the department offices to the hospital and has given notice that present quarters at 792 Bonhomme avenue, Clayton, will be vacated Feb. 15. The county pays $85 a month rent for the building.

At Jefferson City, Dr. McGaugh announced yesterday that, at the request of the St. Louis County Court, he had asked the United States Public Health Service to send a representative to make a survey of health and sanitary conditions in the county with a view of determining what type of health unit can serve the community most efficiently. Members of the court announced recently they would seek a Government survey.

The survey, Dr. McGaugh said, will be made with the co-operation of the State Health Department and will have nothing to do with the present personnel of the county department. He said the public health service has several men available for such a survey and anticipated there would be little delay in starting the work.

WRITES $30 CHECK ON CUFF

Fred Dienstbier, 76, Pays Water Bill That Way.

"Put it on the cuff" may mean "I'll pay later," or it may mean just another practical joke by Fred Dienstbier, 76-year-old retired lawyer, who paid his water bill that way. The cuff, white and stiffly starched, turned up in the morning as a bank check for $30.80, and signed by Dienstbier.

"Yes, indeed, it's good," said Dienstbier, who lives at 3524 Halliday avenue. "I just did it for the novelty of it. I'm always up to some trick or other."

LONG CHARGES STANDARD OIL IS 'SWINDLING' ITS WORKERS

Says It Is Discharging Men in Order to Avoid Pension Law Effective Jan. 9.

By the Associated Press. BATON ROUGE, La., Jan. 5.—With Senator Huey P. Long defying the Standard Oil Co., oil refinery workers of Louisiana prepared to hold a mass meeting tonight to protest against a new tax on the industry. Workers of the local plant, one of the largest refineries in the world, invited refinery employees throughout the State to be present. Groups of employees also have telegraphed President Roosevelt asking for his aid. They charged that Long's dictatorship in the State is depriving them of their constitutional rights.

The tax of 5 cents a barrel on the refining of oil, which becomes effective next Wednesday, was credited with causing Standard Oil Co. to announce it would immediately begin discharging employees and curtailing operations.

Long charged the company was discharging workers to "swindle" them of pensions before one of his laws, which would prevent that, becomes operative Jan. 9. Under the law, persons discharged just before their pension was due to start, would have to be paid a pension in proportion to the time they were employed.

"Our people are crying and begging for a chance to sell their own oil in this State," Long said. "If it wasn't for the Standard Oil we'd be producing a great deal of our own oil because we have a potential production equal to any place. We don't want to see 1500 or 2000 men lose their jobs in Baton Rouge, but we don't want to have the Standard Oil keeping 100,000 men in oil fields out of their employment."

"If they got to leave this State—unless we're going to let them continue what they're doing here—they can go to hell and stay there. They will have no trouble reaching an agreement with me if they want to give Louisiana oil the proper treatment. They know what I'm talking about. There ain't nobody afraid of them."

GIFTS BY CALIFORNIA OIL FIRM TO PUBLIC EMPLOYEES ALLEGED

Grand Jury at Los Angeles Calls for Dismissal of Several Employees.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 5.—Immediate dismissal of several county employees said to have received gifts, entertainment and gratuities from the Gilmore Oil Co. was urged in a grand jury report yesterday.

SIXTH OF CHILDREN IN NATION ON RELIEF

Head of Federal Bureau Says Their Health and Welfare Are in Jeopardy.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—One-sixth of the children in the United States are in families on relief and are not receiving adequate provision, Miss Katharine F. Lenroot, newly appointed chief of the Federal Children's Bureau, told the National Conference on the Needs of Children during 1935 yesterday.

"Seven million four hundred thousand children under 16 are in families dependent upon emergency relief," Miss Lenroot said. "With the average amount of relief per family per month as low as $8.23 in the state with the lowest average, and reaching only $42.36 in the state with the highest average, it is obvious that the health and welfare of these children are in serious jeopardy."

She urged that during 1935 more adequate provision be made for "essential items in the family budget," and also that special attention be paid to 2,000,000 boys and girls from 16 to 21 who are out of school and unemployed.

Country children formerly better off than city children, but now they are the "forgotten" children of the United States, Miss Grace Abbott, retiring chief of the Children's Bureau, said in a paper read by Miss Clara Littlefield. Miss Abbott is ill with influenza.

In 1932, Miss Abbott's paper said, the urban infant death rate was lower than the rural rate in 23 states. Because of a lack of probation officers, psychiatric clinics, and medical facilities in rural areas, delinquent children are neglected until they become so serious they must be sent to industrial schools, the paper asserted.

Miss Abbott urged Federal legislation to aid maternal and child health, Federal aid for education, "evil mothers" pensions, and overhauling of "archaic taxation systems" by the states to give rural communities more funds.

The Parents' Magazine 1935 medal for outstanding service to children was awarded to Miss Abbott and her husband in her behalf by Miss Lenroot.

HELD ON CHARGE HE BEAT WITNESS FOR GOVERNMENT

Jack Briggs Accused of Attempted Intimidation in S. P. Sparks Bogus Money Order Case.

FORMER CELLMATE OF DEFENDANT

Complainant in Assault Warrant Is Brother-in-Law of Indicted Ex-Racing Promoter.

Jack Briggs, 30 years old, was arrested yesterday on a Federal warrant charging assault to intimidate a Government witness against Samuel P. Sparks, former dog track promoter under indictment for possession of counterfeit Cuban money orders.

The complaint against Briggs was filed by Sparks' brother-in-law, Glider P. Varn, who said Briggs entered his room in the Franklin Hotel, 3510 Franklin avenue, about 2:30 a. m. Dec. 22, and beat him with a gas pipe.

Varn said Briggs previously had asked him several times whether he intended to testify against Sparks. Briggs, as he swung the pipe, Varn said, told him, "Now you won't testify against Sparks." Varn's scalp was lacerated, several stitches being required to close one wound.

Briggs denied he had sought to influence Varn against testifying for the Government. He said he had gone to Varn's room to see Varn's roommate and while there became engaged in a fight with Varn on a personal matter.

The offense with which Briggs is charged is a misdemeanor, punishable by a jail sentence of one year and a fine of $1000.

Unable to furnish the $50,000 bond required by United States Commissioner Burke, Briggs was sent to the city jail, where he first met Sparks, a few weeks ago, when they were cellmates. Sparks, arrested here last June, had been free on bond, but failed to appear for preliminary hearing. Recently he was rearrested and sent to Chicago, where the indictment against him is pending.

Briggs had been at liberty under bond on a State warrant issued last Dec. 16, charging grand larceny. This charge was based on an alleged poker game swindle. Briggs, who says he is a salesman, lives at 3502 Franklin avenue.

CORNELIUS VANDERBILT JR. WEDS MISS HELEN VARNER

Marriage Is Third for Former Publisher; Bride's Home In West Virginia.

By the Associated Press. ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Jan. 5.—Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr., writer whose inheritance slipped away in the publishing business, and Miss Helen Varnar of Clarksburg, W. Va., were married here yesterday. The bride said she was 26 years old. Vanderbilt is 36.

It was the third marriage for the 36-year-old son of one of America's most famous families. Mrs. Vanderbilt by a previous marriage was Mrs. Noah Anderson. She is an artist.

Vanderbilt married Rachel Littleton, formerly of Chattanooga, Tenn., in 1920 after he became a cub reporter "because he wanted to work." They were divorced in 1927 and Vanderbilt the next year wedded Mrs. Mary West Logan, Chicago divorcee. Reno courts separated them.

His first wife, Vanderbilt accused Peter Arno, an artist, of paying undue attention to his wife, and Arno declared the writer had threatened him "with bodily harm."

Mrs. Vanderbilt is the daughter of Mrs. H. V. Varnar of Clarksburg. Her father, a physician, died 10 years ago.

The Vanderbilts will leave by train today for Williams, Ariz., and the Grand Canyon. Later they will go to his ranch 40 miles north of Reno, where he has been writing a novel.

M., disclosed the fact today that his last wife had beaten him to it by more than six months. The former Mrs. Mary West Logan Vanderbilt married Thomas P. Brett, an English-born aviator, on June 22 in an Episcopal Church in Concord, N. H. The two spent the summer in Vermont, and have been living very quietly since in Sutton place.

NEW TRIAL IN DAMAGE SUIT

A new trial was granted Anheuser-Busch, Inc., by Circuit Judge Hamilton yesterday in a suit in which Thomas Kutis Jr., member of an undertaking firm at 2908 Gravois avenue, obtained a jury verdict for $80,000 damages.

The court recently held that the award was excessive and directed that Kutis agree that the amount be reduced to $18,000, otherwise the brewery's motion for a new trial would be sustained. Everett J. Hullverson, attorney for Kutis, said it had been decided not to agree to the reduction. Kutis was awarded the damages as a result of a collision between his automobile and an Anheuser-Busch truck in July, 1933, in which he suffered injuries necessitating amputation of his left hand. The verdict was rendered last October.

WASHINGTON AVE.—1115

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY GO ROUND

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—The administration circles of the National League for Social Justice are viewed with deep suspicion. Politicians think the league really is a third party movement, that the crusading priest is preparing the ground for his independent candidacy in 1936. Coughlin's growing public coolness toward the President, numerous reports reaching Washington of disparaging private remarks and Coughlin's known close friendship with Huey Long are considered significant slurs in the wind. An incidental anomaly in the situation is the fact that Coughlin and ex-No. 1 Brain Truster Ray Moley are on close terms. . . . The manager of Washington's burlesque show says that some of his most regular customers are members of Congress—and not bachelors, either. . . . Missouri's veteran Democratic Representative Jack Cochran resumed his seat this session as holder of a unique distinction. . . . In last year's election, he was a candidate for both the Senate and the House. He executed this maneuver by running for the Senatorial nomination and having a friend stand for his House seat. When he lost the Senate race, the friend withdrew, and Jack stepped into his old place.

Sharp Shooting.

They have dug into Raushenbush's divorces and some other alleged details of his private life. Without Raushenbush the munitions moguls know the Senate committee would be severely handicapped. Jim West, hired at the instance of Hoover as publicity man for the Republican National Committee, now is operating as a Capital lobbyist. His latest job is observer for some of the munitions companies. The Government pay check received by such erudite workers as Prof. Rexford G. Tugwell and other Brain Trusters reads on the back: "If endorsement is made by mark it must be witnessed by two persons who can write, giving their place of residence in full."

This was enlivened with clusters of big blue illuminated balloons. Among those holding boxes in the grand ballroom were Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, Mrs. Henry Payne Whitney, Mrs. E. Marshall Field, Mrs. William Randolph Hearst. Patronesses included Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Mrs. Vincent Astor, Mrs. Harrison Williams, Mrs. Ogden L. Mills, Mrs. John Jacob Astor, Mrs. Otto H. ## PREMIER BENNETT OUTLINES REFORM PLAN FOR CANADA

Says Reckless Exploitation of Human Resources and Trafficking in Health Must End.

FOR MINIMUM PAY; MAXIMUM HOURS

Declares 'Better Balance' in Wealth Distribution Must Be Obtained Through Taxation.

By the Associated Press.
OTTAWA, Jan. 5.—A Canadian New Deal similar to President Roosevelt's in important essentials was promised Canada's voters last night as Prime Minister R. B. Bennett, in his second campaign address, outlined proposals for economic and social reform. "There must be an end," he said, "to the reckless exploitation of human resources and the trafficking in the health and happiness of Canadian citizens."

"There must be an end to the idea that a workman should be held to his labors throughout the daylight hours. There should be a uniform minimum wage and a uniform maximum working week."

Assorting the present economic system has broken down and needs radical alterations if it is to be saved, the Premier listed these reforms as necessary:

1.—Contributory employment insurance.
2.—Re-modeled old age pension scheme.
3.—Health, sickness and accident insurance.
4.—Amended income tax laws to correct inequality of wealth distribution.

5.—Minimum wage, laws and maximum hours of work.
6.—Further legislation in the interests of farmers.

Bennett said he did not present the reforms as the complete outline of the Government's program, on the basis of which Canada's voters are asked to return the present administration to office.

Control of Industry.
"Clearly it would be unwise," he said, "to circumscribe our activities by any attempted forecast of all that should be done. We can but move forward carefully."

With regard to Government intervention for the regulation and control of industry, which Bennett previously had termed essential, he said:

"All I can tell you is that we will go just as far as is necessary to reform the system and to make it effectively work again. Declaring inequality in the distribution of wealth existed, he said: 'I think, as between non-producer and the producer, there must be devised, by some plan of taxation to be considered at once, a better balance, not only in favor of the producer but also in the interests of the non-producer.'

Depressions throw men out of work through no fault of the workmen, the Premier said.

"Dole a Rotten Thing."
"If a man is able and willing to work, but can get no work," he continued, "provision for his security must be made in a decent way. I do not mean the dole. The dole is a rotten thing."

"Now that we have achieved some measure of control over economic conditions and can operate without fear of imminent disaster, we are going to do away as quickly as possible with emergency relief measures and put in a permanent system of sound and scientific insurance against unemployment."

Bennett declared it was the State's duty to see that workmen were provided for when their working days are over. A system of insurance to that end, he said, would be on the same social and economic principle as unemployment insurance, involving recognition of thrift on the part of those who would provide for their old age.

"The present old age pensions act is unsatisfactory and obsolete," he asserted, "and must give way to something which will serve you better. Likewise health, accident and sickness insurance must be developed in the same way."

He said regulations to protect farmers against certain types of middlemen and distributors, "some of whose activities would properly include them within the classification of economic parasites," are being considered.

MONTE CARLO BALLET IN OPENING PROGRAM

Dancers Give "Union Pacific" in Collaboration With St. Louis Symphony.

By THOMAS B. SHERMAN.
THE Monte Carlo Ballet Russians began an engagement of four performances at the Municipal Auditorium last night in collaboration with the full orchestra of the St. Louis Symphony Society. The program was headed by the dancing corps de ballet, the dancing principals, the artists who designed the sets, the dance composers, the orchestra and the musical directors all making an indispensable contribution.

The three numbers on the opening program were all new to the local audience, but the most novel and the most provocative of the three, for many reasons, was "Union Pacific." This libretto was composed by Archibald MacLeish, the American poet, the music by Nicolas Nabokoff, a young Polish composer; the choreography was by Massine, and the action revolved around the completion of the first American transcontinental railroad. After four scenes of stylized Irish and Chinese laborers, and even more stylized dance-hall gals, barkeepers, Mexicans and railroad presidents all synchronized with the restless and ironic music of Mr. Nabokoff, the Russian ballet, "Union Pacific" was as much a fable for an American audience as "Aurora's Wedding" and "Firebird."

Nothing about it was American despite the obvious derivation of the costumes and the recognizable snippets of pioneer tunes.

Artists, Not Historians.
Nor should that be held against it. Its composers, after all, are artists and not historians. It is a story of a certain kind of Irish laborer and ruffled fiddle de jure as suit the dynamic purposes of their medium. If they can dig out of the unpromising soil of Utah an idea germinal enough to grow into a coherent, vital and stimulating set of movements it is beside the point to raise the question of local color or regional psychology.

Judged as pure fantasy, then, it was consistent and organically sound. In general the music and the choreography complemented each other and the action unfolded in a series of sharply outlined scenes which were emphasized at critical points by piquant individual vignettes. Tamara Tounanova, the arresting young ballerina with the stary eyes and the ravenswing hair, vitalized the scene in the big tent with a Muscovite version of a Mexican dance hall waltz, Massine did a short but brilliant barkeeper's dance, Irina Baranova was an aristocratic Mae West, half as big and 10 times as alluring, and Messrs. Lichine and Jasinsky contributed important characterizations.

The fight scene in the big tent was badly organized and threw the stage out of balance without adding anything to the excitement. The last scene also sagged a little at the end, possibly on account of the fact that it had too much satire and not enough motion.

It would be difficult to ascribe any lasting importance to Mrs. Nabokoff's score but it was certainly witty and ingenious in its rhythms, its harmonies and in the way that the material was assimilated and transformed. The decor by Albert Johnson reinforced the general spirit of the performance.

"Aurora's Wedding."
"Aurora's Wedding" which opened the performance, was more a ballet in the classic style with the pagantry of the ensemble serving as background and contrast for the individual performers. The "Blue Bird" scene executed by Mr. Lichine who substituted for Roland Guard, the brilliant young American—and the flowerlike Rinaouchinska was on the outstanding technical achievements of the evening. Mr. Lichine's entracts were not the most startling that one could imagine but his ease, flexibility and complete control of his performance consistently satisfying.

The music for "Aurora's Wedding" was derived from the "Sleeping Beauty" and "Nutcracker" suites by Tchaikovsky.

The "Firebird" with music by Igor Stravinsky was interesting and more for its pantomime than for its dancing, although Mme. Danilova was very effective in the title role.

The orchestra was under the able direction of Efrem Kurz and Antal Dorati and the circumstances under which the musicians played were such as to provide the most trying sort of test of their leadership. Due to the fact that the orchestra pit will hold only 55 players the orchestra spilled over on both sides. With the horns and battery beyond the line of the proscenium arch on the extreme right and the double basses and piano on the extreme left, the problem of control—hard enough under normal conditions with a tricky score such as that of "Union Pacific"—was doubly difficult. That part of the audience which was seated in the right section of the main floor inevitably heard a distorted version of the music, since the drums and the brasses frequently made the strings seem very remote.

In the matter of precision, however, Mr. Kurz, with his strong, prominent brow and alert regard for all the twists and turns of the score, reduced the lack of unanimity between sections of the band to a negligible point. And the coordination between orchestra and dancers was undisturbed.

The audience gave the performers an enthusiastic ovation after each number and frequently interrupted the action to express its approval of particularly successful scenes.

At the conclusion of "Aurora's Wedding," Miss Marianna Galston presented a bouquet of flowers to the troupe in behalf of the Russian colony of St. Louis. The ballet will give performances this afternoon, tonight and tomorrow afternoon.

LAVAL CONFERS WITH MUSSOLINI ON PEACE POLICY

French and Italian Spokesmen Meeting in Rome to Discuss Central European Program.

GUARANTEES FOR AUSTRIA LIKELY

Danubian States Also May Pledge Themselves Not to Meddle in the Affairs of One Another.

By the Associated Press.
ROME, Jan. 5.—A two-hour conversation between Premier Mussolini of Italy and Foreign Minister Pierre Laval of France resulted in progress in solving Franco-Italian problems, Laval said after their first meeting here today. He said, however, it was too early to say an agreement has been reached.

Laval will see Mussolini again tomorrow. A Government spokesman indicated this evening another conversation Monday afternoon might be necessary.

Mussolini and Laval conferred with experts on their staffs today before opening conversations on the peace of Central Europe. Laval had a final discussion with his advisers over the breakfast table in his hotel. Mussolini arrived at the Palazzo Venezia, where the conferences are being held, long before the appointed hour.

Laval was received first by King Emmanuel and then joined Mussolini immediately. The meeting lasted two hours.

Preliminary agreement having been reached, it was expected the foundations would be laid for a guarantee of Austria's independence; an agreement by which Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Italy and Austria undertake to refrain from interference in one another's internal affairs; and the cooperation of other European Powers in preserving peace in the Danube Basin.

Kissed By Mussolini.
A kiss on both cheeks was Mussolini's greeting to Laval as the Frenchman arrived in Rome last night. Thousands massed about the railroad station cheered as Mussolini gave Laval the Fascist salute, clasped his hand and kissed his cheeks.

Mussolini, together with most members of the Cabinet, the Foreign Office staff and other Italian notables arrived at the station five minutes before Laval's train was due.

Long lines of Fascist soldiers and policemen stood guard at the station, determined to prevent any untoward incident, while thousands of spectators gathered outside.

Arrival of French Party.
As the visitor's train pulled in on the track reserved for royal trains, Mussolini stepped up to the coach door and greeted Laval as he descended. The Frenchman then presented his daughter, Jose, who accompanied him to the United States but in all Europe to Washington to negotiate for settlement of the war debts controversy, and the three experts who came with him to aid in the negotiations. Fulvio Sivilli, Undersecretary of State, handed Laval a sheaf of roses, the Duce's present.

The statement then walked quickly over a red plush carpet to the reception room reserved for royalty at the side of the station where automobiles were waiting. Here they shook hands again and parted. Laval going to his hotel.

Laval is closely guarded wherever he goes, to prevent a repetition of the Marseilles assassinations, when his predecessor, Louis Barthou, and King Alexander of Yugoslavia were killed.

BILL TO BAR PICTURES OF ARMY AND NAVY EQUIPMENT
Measure Would Require Permission of Commandant Before They May Be Made.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—A bill to denigrate as a federal offense the unauthorized photographing or sketching of military or naval equipment was introduced in Congress yesterday.

Offered by Senator Trammell (Dem.), of Florida, chairman of the Senate Naval Affairs Committee, the bill followed by a few days the arrest and release of a Japanese naval officer after he had snapped pictures of St. Petersburg, Fla., harbors.

Advocates of the bill said it was intended to give to this country the same surveillance of fortifications and naval units as prevails in virtually all other nations. It would require the permission of the commanding officer of any military post or station or ship before photographs or sketches could be made, the pictures to be submitted for censorship. Violation would entail a fine up to $1000, a year imprisonment or both.

ANNUAL AUTO SHOW OPENS IN NEW YORK

Streamlining Again Features New Models—No Radical Change in Design.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Motordom has gone streamline for 1935. Modification of this principle, used extensively for the first time last year, was evident at Grand Central Palace today at the opening of the thirty-fifth annual New York auto show. Yet with all the streamline effects, the new models have not undergone radical change in design. With manufacturers stressing increased production without price increases, the number of models has increased. Ford, participating in the New York show for the first time in 25 years, has nine models, all of them longer in body and streamlined. Chrysler brings out an "airstream" car in two models as a companion car to the "airflow" eight of 1934; Graham-Paige announces a new six in the low price bracket which will go into production today; Chevrolet maintains the standard and master de luxe models, and Packard has a new model for the medium price trade.

"Knee action," "center pole," spring suspension and other features of the new cars, together with several motor refinements, Twenty-five American models and three foreign cars are in the showing.

FOUR GENERATIONS OF FAMILY HEAR ROOSEVELT MESSAGE

His Mother, Wife, Daughter, Mrs. Anna Dall, and Grandchild in House Gallery.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Four generations of Roosevelts watched from galleries yesterday as President Roosevelt mounted the House rostrum and gave his message.

They were Mrs. Roosevelt, Mrs. James Roosevelt, 80 years old, in black; his wife, blue knitting bag close by; Mrs. Anna Dall, their daughter, close-fitting black hat sharply slanted, and her daughter, Miss Harriet, in blue. Mrs. Roosevelt, Mrs. James Roosevelt and Mrs. Elliott Roosevelt, daughters-in-law of the President, also were present.

Among them was Alice Roosevelt Longworth, red-hatted and non-chalant. She watched her first cousin, the President, through a longnet.

In the seats around them were Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, widow of the war-time President; Mrs. Joseph W. Byrum, wife of the new Speaker, and the wives of Senators Hiram Bingham, Charles McNary, and Attorney General Cummings. There, too, were Mrs. Henry Latrobe Roosevelt, wife of the Secretary of the Navy; Mrs. Vincent Astor, of New York and numerous other friends of the Roosevelts.

LITVINOFF REGARDS SECURITY PACT AS MINIMUM OBJECTIVE
Says Proposed Eastern Guaranty Would Be "Considerable Factor" for Peace.

By the Associated Press.
MOSCOW, Jan. 5.—Maxim Litvinoff, Commissar for Foreign Affairs, said yesterday that an Eastern guaranty pact would be a "considerable factor for the assurance of peace not only in Eastern Europe but in all Europe." He gave his opinion to visiting newspapermen from Czechoslovakia.

"However," Litvinoff declared, "to our eyes the Eastern pact does not appear as a maximum program, but on the contrary, a minimum. That is necessary for the protection of peace."

"We don't want war. We don't need war. War can't give us anything we lack. War is harmful. It would hinder our building program. All frontier markers on European borders are bases of peace and the removal of one of them would destroy peace."

NEW CHICAGO MILK ORDINANCE
City Council Adopts Law Based on Federal Model.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Jan. 5.—The Chicago City Council yesterday adopted a new milk ordinance modeled after one recommended by the United States Public Health Service.

The new law opens the way, officials said, for farmers and dealers to produce and deliver milk that will meet the Government's high standards for Grade A. It decreases the allowable bacterial count to 30,000 per cubic centimeter, and requires that the milk contain at least 3 1/4 per cent butterfat instead of 3, as formerly.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH
Editorial Comment in Press
On Roosevelt's Message; Some Praise It, Others Call It Vague
Emphasis Placed on President's Advocacy of Public Works Instead of Cash Relief—Concern Over Financial Aspect of Program.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Comment by newspapers in various cities of the country on the President's message follows:
The New York Times: "The message was a moral exhortation to the country and a tonic appeal to every individual citizen. Captions readers may, indeed, find in the message certain characteristic indications of the President's willingness to give with one hand what he takes away with the other. But this was nowhere marked. With great positiveness he declared that the Government at the present possible moment quit the business of emergency relief. No one has ever spoken with more emphasis of the danger of demoralizing a large body of citizens by making them think they can get their livelihood from the Federal Treasury without doing any work."

New York Herald Tribune: "President Roosevelt's message to Congress exhibits his leadership at its best and at its worst. It is admirably and encouragingly phrased in every item of generality. It is depressingly vague in almost every detail of action and execution. The entire introduction is a welcome denial of any radical or extremist aim. The nation will welcome and applaud this tribute to American ideals. But in the critical item of relief work, as of NRA, the President shifts to vagueness. Mr. Roosevelt has never lived up to his original promise of admitting errors promptly and fully. But in the present speech he by implication concedes the appalling blunders of CWA and pledges his word against their repetition."

New York Daily News: "It was a great speech. The courage evident was on every revealed, and several times. In the face of the stories he flung the announcement that the farm crop control program must go on for another year at least, and much of the NRA be permanent. But in the face of the radicals he let loose the word that this is a democratic country and will remain so as long as F. D. Roosevelt has anything to say about it."

"Details Not Revealed."
The Philadelphia Bulletin: "The details of the Federal work program that is to be revealed, and they may invite discussion. But President Roosevelt's words are a declaration in principle to which exception cannot be taken. And if his purpose can be developed into action, he will deserve credit."

The Philadelphia Record: "The Record applauds the social insurance plan to the utmost. But the Record is puzzled by the President's announcement of a willfully weak wage public works program that is to be revealed, and private employment takes up the gap. How can the President, after describing the need in such impressive terms, enter the fight with a wage so small a weapon? Can we achieve recovery by increasing expenditures by an amount that is little more than one percent of the 40 billion dollars of national income lost per year since 1929?"

The Philadelphia Inquirer: "The President's hopes for the security of livelihood, security against the major vicissitudes of life and the security of decent homes are commendable. Yet there may be a question whether, in failing to offer specific encouragement to private industry, he is not overemphasizing reform to the detriment of recovery. His prospective plans for unemployment and old age insurance, for benefits to children and mothers, for maternity care and for the handicapped are noble in purpose and may be wholly practical, provided they do not impose too great a strain on industry at a time when it still is fighting against the effects of depression."

"Usual Tactfulness."
San Francisco Chronicle: "President Roosevelt's message was written with his usual tactfulness and delivered with his usual charm. The skill with which the President delivered alienating either the business or the anti-business forces is notable. Practically, events and not skilled salesmanship will determine the merits of the goods presented."

The Daily Oklahoman, Oklahoma City: "Past mistakes the canker of admitted by the President. It is a brave thing to announce that relief is essentially bad and that it will be abandoned at a comparatively early day. Genuine Americanism of the old self-sufficient order will derive encouragement from the President's pronouncement in favor of individual effort and the continuation of the profit system."

Los Angeles Times: "On the whole it (the message) will satisfy the country that a good deal of the unsound advice that is being given the Administration by its radical fringe has fallen upon deaf ears. It indicates in most respects a tendency toward the right."

Kansas City Star: "Once more the President has indicated his reliance on private industry to bring recovery, and he proposes no Government action to hasten the process."

"Reform We Can Reach."
Minneapolis Tribune: "The tone of Mr. Roosevelt's message is both moderate and conciliatory. One may search in vain through his message for indications of a pronounced swing to either the left or right. There is little in the message which should not inspire, in the country as a whole, that spirit of confidence and courage which is the very essence of recovery."

FEDERAL CONVICTIONS
FOR YEAR TOTAL 3531

Cummings in Annual Report Says Justice Department Found 928 Fugitives.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Attorney-General Cummings, for the Department of Justice, reported to Congress yesterday that the Government obtained 3531 convictions in the fiscal year ended last June 30. The report covered the period before John Dillinger, "Pretty Boy" Floyd and "Baby Face" Nelson were killed.

The Justice Department said it regarded as "most reliable" a calculation that "in 1933 there were probably a minimum of 1,000,000 serious crimes known to the police." Cummings made no suggestions to Congress except to recommend the creation of two more Federal judgeships in the Southern District of California and the same number in the southern district of New York.

In Cummings' report was a section by J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Division of Investigation. For the year ending June 30, Hoover reported 11 life sentences and other sentences aggregating 5073 years. Suspended sentences totaled 1012 years and probationary sentences 2501 years. Fines imposed on Federal offenders added up to $72,938, and property recovered was valued at $1,116,619. The division found 928 fugitives.

A decrease in the number of persons under Federal supervision was noted by Sanford Bates, director of the Prison Bureau. In 1933 there were 55,060 persons under supervision; the 1934 figure was 42,122. The total Federal prisoners in penitentiaries, jails, reformatories, camps and hospitals in 1934 was 15,812, as contrasted with 20,778 in 1933. The remainder under supervision had parole or probationary status.

The ledger showed that the department handled 126,314 cases and collected a total of $10,247,464 from fines, fees and the sale of prison-made goods. Expenditures were $31,184,213.

APPEAL FROM HOUSING CASE
DECISION UP TO WASHINGTON

Louisville Federal Judge Rules Government's Leasehold Condemnation Power in Slum Clearance.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 5.—Government attorneys today said they would confer with officials at Washington on whether to appeal from the ruling of Federal District Judge Charles I. Dawson that the Government lacks power to condemn private property for a slum clearance project. The decision had the effect of blocking a $1,500,000 low-cost housing project in Louisville.

Judge Dawson said there was no question of the Government's right to condemn land for public use. Low-cost housing, he said, is not a public use in the sense that land is sought for buildings for government agencies.

"Surely it is not a governmental function to construct buildings in a State for the purpose of selling or leasing them to private citizens for occupancy as homes," he commented.

WIDOW IDENTIFIES PAL
OF 'BABY FACE' NELSON

Said to Have Told Grand Jury Chase Was With Him When Officers Were Killed.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Jan. 5.—It is learned on reliable authority that Mrs. Helen Gillis, widow of "Baby Face" Nelson, has identified John Paul Chase as Nelson's companion in the fight in suburban Barrington, Nov. 27, in which Nelson and two Government agents were killed.

Mrs. Gillis, now under prison sentence for harboring the fugitive Dillinger gang last year, spent an hour and a half yesterday before the Federal grand jury which is considering the murder of Federal Agent Samuel Cowley. Cowley was killed with Federal Agent Herman E. Hollis in whose death Chase already has been indicted.

United States District Attorney Dwight H. Green conducted the inquiry before the grand jury. Mrs. Gillis was shielded from view as she left the room under escort of Federal agents. She was brought here several days ago from the Federal Reformatory for Women at Milan, Mich., to testify before the grand jury.

The Chicago Tribune says Chase has identified her as the companion of Nelson in the fight at Barrington. Officers had said he dealt with the county jail Chase, former California bootlegger, arrested on Dec. 27 in the mountains north of San Francisco, told his brother, Charles B. Chase of San Francisco, the Tribune says, that Mrs. Gillis pointed him out as her husband's companion in the fight.

The newspaper says the prisoner insists he did not fire at Hollis or Cowley and that Nelson did all the shooting at the officers.

WOMAN SHOT TO DEATH;
POSSIBILITY OF MURDER

New Jersey Prosecutor Orders Further Inquiry Although County Doctor Says She Killed Self.

MILLVILLE, N. J., Jan. 5.—Although Dr. W. Garrett Miller, county physician, and police said they thought she had committed suicide, Prosecutor Thomas Tuso has ordered further inquiry into the death of Miss Ellen Queen, 38-year-old stenographer, who was found shot to death in a parked automobile here yesterday.

Tuso ordered an analysis of a blood stain found on the front seat of the car. The body was on the back seat. Further supporting the possibility of murder was the absence of powder burns about the woman's wound and blood spots on her coat which police said did not come from her head.

There were reports that she was seen Thursday night near here with an unidentified man. Police in Millville, D. C., where Miss Queen lived for the past month, said a Pekinese dog was with her when she left. No dog has been found.

A pistol lay in her lap. The bullet which entered her forehead was the same caliber as the one found yesterday. She was wearing two notes, one addressed to "Harry," concerning money in person, and the other asking William H. Queen of McKee City, N. J., to notify a Millville undertaker.

Queen resigned a secretarial post in Atlantic City, six weeks ago, and her former employer there said she planned to go to Washington and Miami. She was dependent on the death of her mother, he said. Millville was Miss Queen's home until several years ago.

INDIANA BEER CONTROL LAW
UPHELD BY FEDERAL COURT

Three-Judge Tribunal Reasserts State's Right to Regulate Traffic Within Borders.

By the Associated Press.
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 5.—The right of a State to regulate the liquor traffic within its borders irrespective of Federal laws was upheld here yesterday by three Federal judges who concurred in a decision which denied the petition of three out-of-state breweries for an injunction.

The injunction was sought by the Premier-Pabst Sales Co., and the Joseph E. Seagram & Sons Co., both of Milwaukee, and Anheuser-Busch, Inc., of St. Louis. The breweries alleged the Indiana Liquor Control Act was in restraint of interstate commerce. The suit attacked particularly the provision of the Indiana law for a system of importation through whom beer manufactured outside the State must be distributed.

The three judges held that the contention that the importer system is discriminatory was not sustained by the evidence. The judges ruling in the decision were Louis FitzHenry of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals and Thomas W. Slick and Robert C. Baltzell of the two Indiana District Courts.

MISSOURI LIQUOR TAX
YIELDED $2,362,745

Gallage Levy Brought in $1,523,534 and Beer Tax Produced $342,507.

By the Associated Press.
JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 5.—Missouri's liquor control law enriched the State Treasury by $2,362,745 during 1934. The gallage tax on hard liquors and wines produced $1,523,534 in revenue, the levy on 5 percent beer amounted to $342,507, while the 4242 permits issued by the liquor control department brought in $496,704.

The liquor law, passed by the special session of the Legislature last winter following repeal of the eighteenth amendment, became effective Jan. 13, 1934. Revenue did not pour into the State coffers until nearly six weeks later, however.

A year-end report, prepared under the direction of E. J. Becker, liquor control supervisor, showing the following number of permits issued, and the amount of revenue derived from each: 1417 retailers (liquor by the drink), $308,400; 1357 retailers (original package), $387,975; 941 retailers (5 percent beer), $33,212; 186 wholesalers (5 percent beer), $16,150; 126 railroads (including duplicates), $1091; 120 wholesalers (all kinds of liquor), $51,000; 46 wholesalers (non-resident), $17,375; 37 wholesalers, distillers, blenders, $6635; 8 wine dealers, $1500; 3 beer wholesalers (non-resident), $175; 1 wine dealer (non-resident), $200.

Extradition of Men Wanted in $20,000 Robbery at Erie in 1933 Planned.

By the Associated Press.
GREELEY, Colo., Jan. 5.—Capture in Benton, Ill., of two suspects in the $20,000 robbery of the Erie State Bank at Erie, Colo., was announced here last night by Sheriff W. W. Wyatt.

Sheriff Wyatt said the men held are Grady Beason and Reggie Jefford and are residents of the Benton vicinity. He said Sheriff Byford Vaughn of Benton telegraphed him yesterday that Beason and Jewell had been captured, but gave no details of the arrest. Extradition papers are being prepared by the District Attorney for their return.

"We've been after the two men for several months," Sheriff Wyatt said, "and several of the Erie bank employees have tentatively identified them, from photographs, as the men who held up the bank Nov. 8, 1932."

CUMMINGS CONFESSES ERROR
IN FRATERNITY ARSON CASE

Asks for Reversal of Youth's Conviction in Burning of Sigma Chi House in Washington.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—The Government asked the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia yesterday to reverse the conviction of Edward J. Parilton and Alfred H. Smith on an arson charge in connection with the burning of the Sigma Chi fraternity house here in July, 1933.

The request was made in a brief filed by Leslie C. Garnett, United States Attorney, and written by Attorney-General Cummings. In it the Government confessed error in the case.

After their conviction, the defendants appealed and Cummings, who took a personal interest in the case, asked Garnett to work for their freedom. Parilton, who lives in Derby, Conn., and Smith of Humphreys, Mo., were sentenced to two to nine years in prison. Smith was president of the chapter and Parilton a pledge.

Cummings' confession of error mainly concerned testimony of a prosecution witness showing to have been a transient worker with a record of petty crime. Investigation by department agents, Cummings said, corroborated the defendants' alibi that they had driven to New Freedom, Pa., the night of the fire to keep an appointment with a young woman.

NEW POWER PLANT

$2,000,000 Structure Will Double Company's Present Electricity Output.

Plans for construction of a $2,000,000 electric power plant at Mound and Wharf streets was announced by the Laclede Power & Light Co., electric subsidiary of Utilities Power & Light Corporation of Chicago.

E. P. Gosling, president of Laclede Power & Light, said a new boiler house to cost about $200,000 would be built at once adjoining the company's present electric plant at Mound and Wharf streets. It will be placed in service in connection with the present plant and will supply steam for the new plant which is planned for completion in 1936.

The new plant will have a capacity of 30,000 kilowatts, which will about double the company's output of electricity. Growth of the company's business calls for the improvement, Gosling said.

Laclede Power & Light, organized a few years ago to take over the electric division of Laclede Gas Light Co., competes with Union Electric Light & Power Co., and at present supplies about 12 percent of the electricity used in the city.

The new boiler plant, Gosling said, will be equipped for firing with either natural gas or oil. The construction work will be done by the Management & Engineering Corporation, also a subsidiary of Utilities Power & Light Corporation.

12 NEW LINDENWOOD BUSES

Streamlined Carriers of 30 Passengers Each Going Into Service.

Twelve new streamline buses, seating 30 passengers each, will be placed in service on the Lindenwood line by the Public Service Co. tomorrow. Running between Fourth and Market streets to Mo. Causland and Fyler avenues will be reduced from 34 to 30 minutes.

Time between buses in rush periods will be cut from 2 1/2 to 2 minutes and during the rest of the day from 7 1/2 to 6 1/2 minutes. It will be necessary to continue use of the old double-deck buses on this line only to supplement service in rush periods. The new buses have front and center doors and comfortable leather seats.

Two Women Held Up in Shops. A shabbily dressed man, who asked the prices of roses, drew a revolver and held up Mrs. August Rotherbein in the Blossom Floral Shop, 4114 Manchester avenue, at 7:10 o'clock last night. She gave him $12 and he departed. An hour earlier a man answering the same description held up Mrs. Georgia Stark in her beauty shop at 411 North Boyle avenue, taking $2.

Missouri Loses To Iowa State In Big Six Game

By the Associated Press.

AMES, Ia., Jan. 5.—Stagging another of its characteristic second-half rallies, Iowa State's undefeated basketball team opened its Big Six Conference campaign last night with a 31-to-23 victory over the Missouri Tigers.

Led by Jack Cowen and Jack Flemming, sharp-shooting forwards, the Cyclones drew away from the Tigers shortly after the start of the second session. The score at the half was 16-11.

The first half was a nip-and-tuck battle, the lead changing ownership several times during the spirited play. The Cyclones, however, had the stronger finishing attack to pull away from the Missouri lads.

Cowen dropped in 11 points for the Cyclones, while Don Handley, sophomore center, and Jorgenson, a guard who was ejected from the game in the last few seconds on fouls, were the big shots in the Missouri play.

By the Associated Press.

NORMAN, Ok., Jan. 5.—Going into the last half on the short end of a 14-to-8 score, the Sooner basketball team of the University of Oklahoma staged a dramatic finish here last night to turn back Kansas State, 38 to 32, and get off to a flying start in the Big Six Conference race.

A crowd of 3000 fans saw the game, the first of a series of two contests which will be concluded in the university field house Saturday night. Oklahoma missed shot after shot in the first half, at the end of which Kansas State led, 18-14.

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Jan. 5.—Joe Bodis of Cleveland arrived in St. Louis early today ready for his triple performance today which will inaugurate his tour of St. Louis under the auspices of the Bowling Proprietors' Association of America.

His first appearance will be at Charles C. Peterson's Recreation at 3 p. m., where he will oppose Elmer Schnell in a six-game match before devoting an hour to instructing beginners in the game. He has two engagements this evening, the first at the Arway Recreation at 7 p. m. and the second at the Cindarella Recreation at 9 p. m.

Bodis will appear in six other alleys here and also will show his wares at Tom Hefton's St. Clair alleys in East St. Louis, when he will appear at the Mississippi at 7 p. m. Tuesday before going to Max Kannapell's Fairground Recreation at 9 p. m. Tuesday where he will meet Harold Schaeffer of the powerful Fiedler team of the Arway City and A. B. C. Scratch leagues.

The Clevelander will shoot against Lee Martin of the Wooster Lambert team at the Washington alleys at 3 p. m. tomorrow and will meet Joseph, six in Jefferson City, 160 in other cities and towns, and seven on country roads.

Union Complaint Dismissed.

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 5.—The Cleveland Regional Labor Board dismissed last night a complaint of discrimination against the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. of Akron. The complaint was filed by the United Rubber Workers' Union. The union charged that 320 men had been laid off because of union activity. The board held there was no sufficient evidence to support the charge.

Today

The President Tells You.
If Over-Privileged, Worry.
No More Charity.
Lindbergh Knows the Voice.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.
(Copyright, 1935.)

THE big news is the President's message, delivered, in person, to members of the Senate and House of Representatives.

That is ONE message that will be read with close attention by every intelligent American.

If you happen to be "privileged," to use the President's expression, the message may worry you; for in it the President complains of "old inequalities," regrets that "we have not weeded out the over-privileged, and have not effectively lifted up the under-privileged."

Look out if you are "over-privileged."

But if you are merely a man that has worked, made some money and still has it, which sounds improbable, there is no worry, for the President says everything will be done "in the spirit and intent of the American Constitution." The American Constitution forbids taking a man's property without "due process of law," even to give it to some gentleman who neglected to save while saving was possible.

The President is sick and tired of palliatives, measures that cost money, producing no permanent good results. He says the dose, merely handing out money, is "a narcotic."

He is tired of distributing market baskets or cash, or jobs cutting grass, picking up leaves and pieces of paper in parks.

He intends to create jobs that will have permanent future wealth-creating value, for the nation.

Uncle Sam will build bigger, better roads, eliminate grade crossings, make "better use of national resources," make livelihood secure "against the major hazards and vicissitudes of life." To that will be added "the security of decent homes."

The President dreads the effect of "continued dependence upon relief," which "induces a spiritual and moral disintegration, fundamentally destructive to the national fiber." To dole out relief in this way is to administer a narcotic, a subtle destroyer of the human spirit. It is in violation of the traditions of America. Work must be found for able-bodied but destitute workers.

THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT MUST AND SHALL QUIT THIS BUSINESS OF RELIEF.

Very welcome those words, to all Americans, including especially those that have endured the keen humiliation of hated "charity." Dante described that when he told that he knew how it felt to hold out the hand for bread.

International conditions disturb the President a little. He says: "I cannot with candor tell you that general international relationships outside our borders are improved. Old passions are resurrected, old passions aroused, new strivings for armament and power, in more than one land, rear their ugly heads."

The President hopes that "calm counsel and constructive leadership" will keep the world out of trouble.

Our own country, the President thinks, need not worry, because "our peaceful and neighborly attitude toward other nations is coming to be understood and appreciated."

You will read every word of that message carefully, for it means a first deal to this nation, in which the central Government has taken the lead in everything.

The United States Treasury is the only "bank" engaged in active business. The President is the directing head, manager, ruler of every national enterprise from the far northwestern tip of Alaska all the way to Key West.

Outside of the President's all important message you read that Col. Lindbergh swears that the voice he heard in the cemetery, the voice of the man taking $50,000 that he paid as ransom for his child, was the voice of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, accused of kidnapping and murder.

You may see in print the 12 faces of the Lindbergh jury. Study those faces, then study the numerous photographs of Hauptmann sitting in court, and ask yourself, which faces seem more intelligent.

New Jersey's Attorney-General says Hauptmann is more intelligent than all the lawyers in the case put together.

Reporters say that Hauptmann "appears to enjoy posing for the photographers." That, psychiatrists will tell you, is a bad sign for Hauptmann and his chance of acquittal.

On Jan. 8 Transcontinental & Western Air, Inc., will start a regular non-stop service between Chicago and St. Louis.

IF YOU ASK My OPINION

By MARTHA CARR

Dear Martha Carr: THIS is for "Sispenne" and "L. M. C." I am a married woman (one year) and working. And if the single girls working only know they spend more for luxuries and foolishness, than I could ever think of doing. What, may I ask, do the majority of single girls use their wages for? A very little for board, some of them, and the rest for hair-dressers, manicures, shows, etc.

It so happens that the young fellows do not make enough to support themselves and a wife. And if all young people had to wait until the young men made enough, we'd have a long wait. But why not marry and work to help establish a home, buy furniture and the necessities and get our start? I am looking forward to a nice home, so I can raise a family without being half starved and going into debt.

After reading some of these letters on this subject in your column I have been greatly impressed by the utter lack of fundamental, elemental economic understanding shown.

The failure of our economic system to guarantee this inalienable right is the everlasting disgrace of the human race. I'd like to hear how many of the correspondents have been aware of this right of labor and enjoy the fruits of one's labor? OLD PROFESSOR.

And are we married women never going to have any pleasures and comforts, never have our hair set? Shall we wear cotton stockings and have no decent clothes? NO—I don't think these girls could settle down in seclusion and have nothing. They would get work if they could. But there are not many married women working outside the home unless they are obliged to.

MARRIED TWENTY-FOUR.

My Dear Mrs. Carr: ENCLOSED find $1.00 to help some of the poor and needy who write into your column. I would be glad if you would let me know through your column that you received this.

ONE WHO WISHES TO HELP.

Thank you for your contribution and for your kindness in thinking of it. It has been sent to an old lady who wrote in asking for a Bible.

Dear Martha Carr: I GET lonely sometimes and could enjoy some of the organizations and clubs, but for some of the women in them. That sounds maybe a little unappreciative. But it does seem to me that these could be conducted in a more friendly and less patronizing manner. Some of them think it must be just grand to give up the pleasures of knowing them—well, it's funny why rebel?

NOT A JOINER.

I think I know what you mean, and I agree. As a matter of fact, if it did not start your risk, it would be infuriating. The large lady always on the rostrum, literally or figuratively, who goes about shedding light; who says in an oily-sugar voice (but something like the squeaking of a hinge):

"Now, I am the Extra Special officer of this club and I feel that all worthy and respectable people should be allowed the privilege of joining us. Come in whenever you wish. Everybody here is very kind."

And with a large, expansive manner she passes on to the next. Some clubs need weeding out.

Dear Mrs. Carr: HERE appeared in your column a request for prayers for all occasions, by a person who signed herself "Dumb Bell." I have just received such a book of prayers of all religions, some of which are very ancient. I am sending you several of these prayers and other information and if the writer is sincere, she could have them by sending to you a stamped envelope, asking for them.

Christians have the beautiful example of the prayer given to them by Jesus the Christ, as a standard; and it is a most beautiful standard. But long before the Christian era, the Mystics and those upon whom the Light of God shone among men, knew by Divine Inspiration how to pray. Examples of their prayers in these pages, proves this fact. There are two books which give these "Mystic" prayers by H. Spencer Lewis. A ROSICRUCIAN STUDENT.

Dear Mrs. Carr: I AM a woman 70 years old and I have lived in St. Louis 30 years. I was born in Europe, and have to citizenship papers. Will I get my pension or not?

One man told me that when I'm 80 years in this country I don't need citizenship papers, I am a citizen already. Is that true?

A POOR OLD WOMAN.

I would advise you to see the Naturalization Bureau, Postoffice Building, Eighth and Olive, about your citizenship.

This is not, as yet, an old-age pension law in Missouri. It is possible that one may be passed at the coming session which convened Jan. 2, 1935.

Dear Martha Carr: I WANT to answer "A Married Woman Who Does Not Work." She says, flatly, "No one can say, definitely, who has or has not a right to a job." That is just what I want to say explicitly and definitely. Everyone, anyone who is

Mixed Diet Best Suited For Health

Balanced and Varied Meals Have Been Shown Most Desirable.

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

Do you remember the fellow who used to pop up in the newspapers 25 years ago, at least, in this Western country—who ate a quail a day for 30 days? It didn't seem to hurt him any. But it must have been pretty monotonous, even to the most hardened quail lover.

But its monotony and its over-balanced protein quota illustrate man's enormous powers of adjustment to his food supply. Man's adaptability to conditions is so amazingly elastic that he can exist on a variety of diets. Thus, it is possible that many dietetic theories, however conflicting, may all be practicable. In the past few years there have been scores of diets popularized, including meatless diets, fruit and nut diets, raw vegetable diets, etc.

These are fads upon which people may quite possibly be able to subsist, but merely because of their powers of adaptability, our physiological makeup being such that when the body is deprived of one thing, there are other substances to take its place. What a pity our external needs cannot be handled as dexterously!

In spite of the fact that faddists have achieved robust health with a special food or freak diet, there is a preponderance of evidence that a mixed diet is best suited to human requirements. As a matter of fact, it has been observed by students of history that the people and nations of the greatest achievements are those who live on a mixed diet. It strikes me that the theorists of freak diets have accomplished little more than proving our ability to live under as difficult conditions as they can produce in a civilized nation. For who would eat Melba toast and Swedish hardtack (recombined by a popular dietitian) in preference to hot rolls and butter?

If the cook of the home exercises ingenuity and versatility in planning balanced and varied dinners, meals will not only be more pleasant, but decidedly more nourishing.

QUESTIONS FROM READERS. M. S.: "How much water is an adult supposed to drink a day? I usually drink from 25 to 30 glasses, and am wondering whether that could be too much."

Answer: The amount of water an adult drinks depends upon the season of the year, the quality of the food—whether salty or not, and personal taste. There are a few diseases which increase thirst, such as diabetes, but eliminating that, excessive thirst is largely a matter of habit. The average amount of water excreted by the kidneys in the normal adult is about two to two and one-half quarts. If your glasses contain six ounces of water, this would amount to about four quarts. There is usually insensible perspiration to the amount of a quart a day, so your intake is not much above the average.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Six pamphlets by Dr. Clendening can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

If fruit cake seems a little dry after baking, saturate cloth in brandy or grape juice and wrap around cake, tie with several thicknesses of waxed paper and store in airtight place.

fill the individual pieces of dough with the filling. Moisten and pinch edges tightly together and boil in salted water about 15 minutes. Arrange on platter and cover with this hot sauce:

SAUCE. Make this sauce by cooking one pound of ground beef in a little olive oil, add a very little minced garlic, seasoning to taste; one large can of tomatoes and a few chopped corn or canned baked sweet potatoes. Simmer slowly for one-half hour.

Dear Mrs. Lang: I shall kindly ask you to please send me chicken and meat gravies, also baked sweet potatoes, Southern style, and candied baked sweet potatoes. JOHN ST. AVIT. Cape Girardeau, Mo.

For chicken gravy, remove chicken and drippings from pan, leaving about three tablespoons of drippings in pan. Heat these drippings and gradually stir in one rounded tablespoon of flour and stir until the flour is dissolved. Gradually pour on two cups of milk or cream and stir continuously over fire until thickened. Add seasoning to taste and strain all through a sieve and reheat.

For beef, lamb or pork, after removing the cooked meat to a head platter, reserve the three tablespoons of drippings as for chicken.

A ST. LOUIS GIRL IN THE MOVIES

BETTY GRABLE

By Marguerite Martyn

BETTY GRABLE is just about twice as tall as when I saw her last. Then she was 12 and smug for her age, in very short wide skirts, her head a mop of yellow curls. Now she is 18 and quite tall, looking taller than the five feet, three inches, she owns, because of her sleek slenderness. Her skirts are very long and clinging and her hair is platinum blonde with curls brushed smoothly back off her ears.

A good many other things have happened to her. She and her mother have returned for a few days' visit to Betty's father, Con Grable, at the Forest Park Hotel, with a seven-year R. K. O. movie contract in their pocket. I say, their pocket, because, as Mr. Grable says, any rewards or recognition due Betty are due still more to her mother. Her mother has supplied most of the motive power and ambition back of Betty's accomplishments since unusual talents for dancing and showmanship were first discovered in the little girl.

These cropped out very early, so while Betty was still in the primary grades at Mary Institute, Mrs. Grable started her on a rigorous training in dancing. All the time she was going through the elementary grades, Mrs. Grable was entering her at work one morning and demanding to know how old she was. Betty didn't think fast enough and answered truthfully, 17. The welfare worker grabbed one of her arms, the director the other, and the production was held up 25 minutes, but the welfare officer went out and Betty had to go and give a satisfactory account of her status as a minor. Either that or pay a fine of $1000.

"That's all over now since Dec. 18 when I was 18." She sighed with relief.

She doesn't like the wildness that is Hollywood nor the wildness that is the West.

"Betty never has had to ask for a part," said Mrs. Grable. "Every time she has had to be offered to her. Mary Pickford selected her out of a score of dancers to double for her in the dancing of 'Kiki.' When she was 12 Eddie Cantor picked her out of the chorus to do a specialty in 'Whoopee.' Frank Fay took her out on the road in his 'Tattle Tales' and discovered that she could sing. Ted Florio got her released from that show to sing and dance with his orchestra. That led to other orchestra engagements and to being chosen for the 'Let's K-nock K-nees' dance in 'The Gay Divorcee.' From that R. K. O. signed her to a featured player's contract. Give her a dance to do or a song to sing and she'll do it gladly. She loves to work, but she'll never ask for it."

One could well believe that Betty yawned. (Excuse it, please, she had had to get up early to catch a train) throughout the interview when she wasn't singing a snatch of song or sliding into a dance step. Except when actually posing for our photographer, she was listless—and hungry. Her most absorbing interest seemed to be in something to eat.

"Can't you wait until we get over to your aunt's? They have coffee every day at 4 o'clock and there's sure to be something to eat," her mother would say appealingly.

Betty is not crazy about Hollywood. The most excitement she has had has been dodging truant officers. She managed to get a work permit provided she attended school regularly until she was 14, after that the schools for professionals taken for publicity purposes showing herself wearing cow girl costumes mounted on broncos or embracing or playing tug-of-war with lion or tiger cubs out of somebody's zoo.

"That little beast gave me a nasty scratch on the arm," she said, feeling very sorry for herself, although in the picture she looked as if there was nothing she enjoyed more than cuddling lion cubs, and on horseback she looked the very spirit of the outdoor West at its wildest.

"When do we eat, Daddy?" she asked, bringing up that fit repeated question again. Mother and daughter had come East primarily to be on hand when another daughter—Mrs. David Thornton Arnold's—first baby was born in Kansas City. Sister Marjorie had never even appeared on the stage. "Is she as pretty as Betty?" was asked. "Much prettier," responded Mr. Grable promptly. "Of an entirely different type. Brunette where Betty is blonde."

"But we look alike," insisted Betty.

As Mr. Grable escorted out, he said, "Next time you come, will you bring a poor starved movie actress on horseback she looked the very

Rice and Onion Stuffing. Another suggestion for an interesting dressing for the turkey. One and one-half cups rice, two tablespoons butter, three tablespoons minced onion, one egg, six chopped mushrooms, four cups soup stock, two teaspoons salt. Fry the onion in butter until soft. Dredge with rice and onion. Simmer until the rice is a golden color. Then add soup stock, salt and poultry seasoning. Cover and steam for 20 minutes. Remove from fire, add beaten egg and cool before stuffing fowl.

This dressing lends itself nicely for a stuffing for small birds, such as squabs, also.

Ginger Ale Frappe. A nice punch to serve for the holiday dance of the junior set. Place in a punch bowl two quarts of orange ice and pour over it three quarts of ice cold ginger ale. Maraschino cherries and juice may be added to give color and flavor. Grind with a dipper, adding some of the orange ice to each glass of punch.

Add coconut to apples to be baked and you will have a "little different" flavor. Remember to add lemon juice to all baked fruits and the flavor will be improved.

Appel Kuchen. Dough. One cake of compressed yeast. One cup of milk. Three and three-quarters to four cups of sifted flour. One-fourth cup of sugar. One egg. One teaspoon of salt. One-third cup of shortening. Scald the milk with the shortening, cool to lukewarm, and in this dissolve the yeast. Add the egg, beaten with the sugar and salt. Warm the flour just enough to take off the chill and add to mixture. When well mixed, knead gently on a lightly floured board until smooth and elastic. Place in a greased bowl and allow to rise in a warm place until double its bulk, about an hour and a half. Work down and again let rise for about 30 minutes. Turn dough onto a lightly floured board and roll out about one inch thick and fit in a pan, about a nine-inch pan. Brush with butter and sprinkle with cinnamon and sugar. Slice two large peeled

I regret that I have not the space to publish all your requests in this article, but in next Saturday's Post-Dispatch will give some of the others.

Clean two hog's heads and split, place in cold water, bringing slowly to a boil and cook until meat is very tender. Pick off meat and run through a meat grinder, using the finest blade, two or three times. Grind two cups of uncooked hog liver and mix with the meat, adding salt, pepper and a little sage. Fill casings, tie at ends and drop in the water that the heads were cooked in, after removing all the grease. Cook until, when pricked with a darning needle, the juice will come out clear. Remove from pot to a cool place until ready for winter use.

Dear Madame: I hope you may be able to assist me by sending me the following: Braunschweiger; salami; baked pineapple en casserole; caramel

Fluffy-Fringe Fringed napkins are much better looking if they are slapped against the ironing board and the fringe loosened before being pressed.

Child Welfare Stamps Issued By Luxembourg

To Honor 14th Century Count — Portugal Has First 1935 Issue.

JEAN L'AVEUGLE, whose name is engraved in many places on the historical pages of Europe of the fourteenth century, is being honored by a set of postage stamps for Luxembourg.

Known as John the Blind, having lost his eyesight six years before his death, L'aveugle became Count of Luxembourg in 1389. The stamps picture him in full armor astride a charger.

The issue is the annual child welfare group and consists of six stamps, from 10 centimes to 1 1/2 francs. There is a surtax on each which will go to child welfare work.

First for 1935.

The first stamps of 1935 already have made their appearance. They are from Portugal and are issued on behalf of the Red Cross.

By use of the surcharge of a cross and "1935" in red, six values of the Camoens commemorative issue of 1924 were used to create the set. They comprise 40-centavo ultramarine, 45-centavo red brown, 60-centavo green, 75-centavo dark violet, 450-escudo black on dark orange and 10-escudo dark brown on pinkish.

Italian Additions.

Italy has made the Rome to Mogadiscio flight the occasion for the issuance of some more stamps in addition to the group announced previously. Like the set for the mother country, the latest also consists of airmails and is somewhat similar in design.

The issue, on behalf of Italian Somaliland, is made up of 10 values, 25 centesimi to 25 lire. On the stamps is the head of King Emanuel in relief just as it appears on a coin.

New Stamps Decrease.

According to the stamp catalogues, the number of new issues decreased in 1934, at least in face value. For Europe there were 588 stamps issued with a face value of $182 and the previous year 1933 showed 700 stamps issued with a face value of $219. Italy again is at the top of the list with 18 per cent of the number of stamps issued. Last year they had 36 per cent of the total number of stamps issued. Latvia jumped their output from $2 face value to $17 in 1934. Spain dropped from $35 worth in 1933 to $24.40 in 1934. Monaco came down from $4 to 10 cents, while England issued no new stamps.

Items of Interest.

The Jubilee Series of England will be printed by three different stamp printers. They will be printed from steel plates engraved in recess.

The Connecticut commemorative stamp is expected to portray Jonathan Trumbull, Governor of Connecticut from 1769 to 1783.

The new Philippine Island series will be available at face value at the office of the Philippine Trade Commissioner, 928 Barr Building, Washington, D. C., upon official release in Manila. Face value is $8.67.

The new duck stamps for 1935 will picture three canvasbacks just after taking off from a lake, surrounded with water plants and brush. The original etching was by Frank W. Benson, noted painter of wild life.

New Issues.

HUNGARY—This country has adopted a new design for postage due stamps. It consists of the numeral value in the center against a network background. The name of the country at the top of the stamp and the monetary unit at the bottom. All values are printed in blue and are as follows, 2, 4, 6, 8, 10, 12, 16, 20, 40 and 84.

INDIA—Jahore—This state will issue a special 5-cent stamp bearing the portrait of the late Sultan Aboubaker and the great ruler. It will commemorate the fiftieth anniversary of the British Protectorate.

MANCHOUKOU—The 16 fen stamp is to be discontinued and the 9 and 18 fen values to be added. The colors of the 2, 5 and 10 fen stamps will be changed.

ROUMANIA—Two new stamps have been issued portraying King Carol. The 50 bani septa portrays the King in civilian clothes, while the 6 lei red brown shows him in dress uniform with plumed helmet.

SAAR—All seven values of last year's charity set have been overprinted along the left side as follows, Volksheimstimmung 1935.

SPANISH MOROCCO—A recent addition to the current series is the 5c wine red. It portrays a group of natives before the gateway to a castle.

On Broadway

By Walter Winchell

IT ISN'T what you say, of course, it is how it is put. Take the incident of many years ago when one of the more caustic wits of his time abused a man in public life.

He had said of a statesman—"He'd steal a red hot stove!" The President of the United States was urged to intervene and put an end to the public quarrel, for the good of the country. The President asked the critic, a friend, to make a public retraction. He obliged this way:

"I said he would steal a red hot stove. Now I want to say he wouldn't steal a red hot stove."

Oop! "As these notes look up at you this winter's morning, Joseph Schildkraut is aboard The Chief, probably somewhere between Denver and the Coast.—The Times.

If these notes look up at the Santa Fe train dispatcher, they'll probably see a man going nuts wondering who routed The Chief through Denver!

Compliment "Dark Victory" reports The Nation, "is a romantic melodrama about a spoiled and beautiful girl, who discovers that she has only a year to live. An excellent role for Tallulah Bankhead."

Worry "When a man had just been asked to pay $15 for an order of asparagus, in a hotel that owed several million dollars to a couple of railroads which had borrowed over millions from the U. S., he is likely to be disposed to discuss debts and debt structures, and the distribution of wealth and taxation.—E. Angley in Today.

TANGO

Treasure, Left to Her Own Resources by The Departure of Tony, Is Forced to Return to Her Former Work.

CHAPTER SIXTEEN.
TREASURE could not believe that Tony wouldn't come back. She had sat for a long time staring out the window into the street waiting for him to return so that she might explain. Rudolf had said, "Don't worry about it, dear! He's jealous but he'll get over it. He'll be back."

She hated Rudolf but nevertheless she believed that he was right. Tony acted on the impulse of the moment. When he had thought it over he would realize how foolish it was. He knew—how well he ought to know—that she had never been in love with any one else. The very fact that she had given her heart to him so simply without any attempt at coyness or coquetry should prove it to him. Their love for each other had been the most wonderful thing that could ever happen to them. First love for both. Tony could not remember that week at Tahoe and doubt her.

So, being a sensible little person not inclined to sulk and realizing that there was nothing to be gained by making Rudolf angry, she controlled the resentful words she might have spoken and said merely, "Please go now, Mr. Molinari. I'd rather you wouldn't be here when Tony comes back."

Yes she had said "when" not "if." So sure she was that he would come. And for once Rudolf did not argue about it. With polished suavity he took his departure. "I'm terribly sorry, Treasure. If I have complicated things any further," he said regretfully. "You haven't," she declared. "Tony trusts me too much to stay upset. He won't go away without seeing me."

"I'm sure he won't," Rudolf agreed. "But he is leaving at 6 o'clock tomorrow evening." She longed to ask "What train?" but pride forbade. If Tony did not come to tell her good-byes of his own accord she would make no attempt to see him. Her head was high until Rudolf had gone. Even after she was sure he must have left the building she still sat waiting, dry eyed, saying, "Tony wouldn't do me that way. He will be back."

At 2 o'clock when he had not returned she turned out the lights and went to bed. But she did not give up hope. "He will come tomorrow to tell me how sorry he is," she insisted. "The poor darling has gone through so much the last two days his nerves are at the breaking point. The sight of his telephone bell but it was in the apartment next door. After that there were some bad moments when she was compelled to face the fact that whether he came to see her again or not the next eight months must certainly be lived without him."

"I'll have to keep terribly busy," she decided. "And I'll have to find some kind of a job. If Tony doesn't want me to go back to the night club perhaps he can suggest something else for me to do."

She would be careful to do nothing more to hurt or antagonize him. Would take his advice and wait for the future she was still his faithful wife, loving him as much as ever. Morning came at last. She rose eagerly to bathe and dress and straighten the apartment. All day she remained inside for fear he might call or come and she would miss him. But only her mother called to say that Mr. Fernando had telephoned to ask why she hadn't returned to the club.

"I didn't know," she said. "I'll ask you to call him." "That was right, mama!" "Is everything all right today, dear?"

Poor Ellen, how she was going to suffer when she knew her daughter's marriage was to be annulled. "I won't tell her until I have to," Treasure decided. "Something might happen to make them change their minds." She answered cheerfully that everything was fine and took up her watch by the window again. "Rudolf might call and tell Tony himself that he had lied," she thought wistfully. Although she would have preferred that he should believe in her without his brother's confession. But the day wore away and Tony did not come. Stubbornly she still refused to believe that he would go away without calling her. The last minute—at the station just before the train left—he would have to telephone. One little sign that he understood and was not angry. But the hands of the alarm-clock she had purchased so gaily at the corner drug store moved relentlessly to the hour when Tony's train was to leave and she heard nothing but its steady ticking and the painful beating of her own heart. And then the minute hand slipped past and he was gone. There was nothing left for her to do but face it. Yet even then so strong her faith in him had been she could not believe it. Perhaps Rudolf had lied about his going to New York. He had said about it to the telephone. Perhaps it was only a ruse to make her think that Tony was leaving. Driven by fear which was beginning to eat into her heart she said she went to the telephone and asked for the Molinari number. She had never called him before. They wouldn't recognize her. "You certainly don't look it although I've always preferred older men myself. They're so much more interesting."

Oh, Tony, where are you now? No chance tonight of looking over her partner's shoulder to see him sitting at their customary table. There was a middle-aged couple sitting there holding hands. The sight annoyed her. People as old as that had no business to be making love! That she became conscious of the fact that she was being steadily pressed closer to the lonely breast of the gentleman from Pittsburgh. "Let's have a drink," she suggested sweetly. "I'm terribly thirsty."

fat, pink tongue. "So get in there and get busy." Ten minutes later she was dancing with a rather pleasant looking gentleman from Pittsburgh, who admitted that he was lonely and that he wasn't working. He had expected it to be... At least it hadn't been until he met her. Presently he added that he had a daughter just about her age and without even thinking she cooed. "Oh, you must be working again."

"Yes, I'm working again," Treasure repeated calmly. Juanita couldn't hurt her now. No one could ever hurt her again. As Tony had and in some inexplicable fashion she felt that she was retaliating by coming back to the night club. Not that she was doing it for that reason. She had to support herself and it was the only way she knew. She had asked Pete for Oliver's address but he answered gruffly that he didn't know. Angry probably because the orchestra had left him. Well it didn't matter! Nothing mattered after she read in the paper that the marriage of Treasure McGuire and Anthony Molinari had been annulled.

THE STONE SLINGER—Giovanni Perasso, 14 years old, was in Genoa, Dec. 5, 1746, when the Austrians took possession. An Austrian regiment pressed some Italian passersby into service to help them move a heavy gun. This was the signal for a popular rebellion, which drove the Austrians from Northern Italy in five days. A monument was erected to Perasso in Genoa. In 1926 Mussolini invoked this historical incident to enroll all boys from 6 to 18 under the banner of the Balilla or Rock Thrower. At present 2,216,166 youths are enrolled in the semimilitary organization through which Duce hopes to perpetuate the Fascist rule.

A CHAMPION SCHOOL COMMUTER—Eunice Foster of Guion, Tex., must walk 5 miles and ride 37 miles every day to attend her classes. Eunice's home is situated off the highway, and she must walk 2 1/2 miles each way to reach the bus. Then she rides to and from the Winter High School, which is more than 20 miles from her home. By the time she gets her diploma she will have covered at least 1000 miles on foot, and many thousands of miles through the mud, rain and snow in the bus.

Eternal Lullaby

By Collette Baynes

It was once upon a time in the peaceful village of Glenmara, nestled contentedly beside one of Ireland's own blue lakes. A chill wind beat cold from the water, sending the simple folk close beside their fires.

Alone in her small cottage Mary Grady shivered and clutched the coarse woolen of her shawl more tightly. She felt the cold grow and swell until it became a horrible tangibility. Mary Grady knew it was the spirit of death come to take her Shannon from her. Ah, God help her. Three nights now she had heard the low moan of the banshee rising from the bog with the sweep of the wind through the trees. And yesterday Michael had come to her at the old well behind the church—Michael, her man, who had been dead these four years.

Mary knew. These were signs that did not lie. Another loved one was to go and she could do nothing to save him.

She threw herself upon her knees before the fire, her hands clenched in a litany of despair. Why wouldn't the great God spare her baby? Why must He take all she had? Couldn't He leave her some living thing to love? Some living thing to keep her heart beating and her mind sane. He had taken Michael, young, laughing Michael, who wanted to live. And now—ah, but God forgive her for what she might be saying in her madness.

She was calm for a while as she rose slowly to her feet and bent over the tiny wooden bed. Shannon hadn't moved. He looked so strange and unreal, like some silent waxen doll lying in a halo of light from the fireplace. He seemed scarcely even to breathe. What if he should never move again? What if she should never hear his baby voice calling "mother"?

Agony again seized Mary. It tortured her to think of that precious body torn from her arms and buried in the damp ground, to be chilled by the winds and the rain. If he went, she must go, too. Death was a strange and cruel mystery. She feared it by instinct and life had taught her to hate it. But no Shannon could not go without her.

Outside the cottage the night, too, seemed sorrowing, and Mary became suddenly conscious of a grief kindred to her own, a plaintive fragment of sound, a child who peeped in through the window.

She was awakened by Shannon's baby voice calling "mother." Rising quickly to her feet, she gathered him hungrily into her arms. Mother of God! He wasn't going to die, he was hers to keep, he had spoken to her, called her name.

The other child? Where was he? She looked around the room. He was gone. The realization came to her. He was a child of the good people. Thank God for their blessed magic.

And her Michael in heaven was smiling down on his loved ones and the little fair child who peeped in through the window.

Let's EXPLORE Your MIND

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. Sc.

See Whether His Opinions Agree With Your Own

1. A CHINESE GENERAL HAS FORBIDDEN THE USE OF WOMEN IN HIS ARMY BECAUSE HE CLAIMS THEY CANNOT KEEP A SECRET. IS HE JUSTIFIED?

YES OR NO

2. ARE GUNS MORE LIKELY TO ADOPT THE POLITICAL PARTY OF THEIR FATHERS THAN THEY ARE THEIR VOCATIONS?

YES OR NO

3. SHOULD ALL CHILDREN BE COMPELLED TO GO THROUGH HIGH SCHOOL?

YES OR NO

AUTHOR'S NOTE: These answers are given from the scientific point of view. Science puts the rights of organized society above the rights of individuals.

—To some extent, yes. Some women make good spies, but since their dealings are entirely with men and they often have to secure their military secrets by making love to the men, their superiors have the constant fear of women spies falling in love with their intended victims and "spilling the beans." As in civil life, more women than men feel their way instead of thinking their way through life and find it harder to keep secrets, especially from their men friends, than most men do.

—Prof. U. G. Weatherly, sociologist of Indiana University, states in the Journal of Sociology that there is a much stronger tendency for sons to adhere to their father's political party than to follow his vocation. He thinks this is because the son's ambitions and individuality are much more decisive factors in determining his choice of a life occupation than in determining his political party. The latter does not much concern him, but the former does. Therefore, in deciding upon his occupation he is much more likely to express his individuality and choose for himself.

—What else are we going to do with the child up to 14 and 16? Prof. Isaac L. Kandel of Columbia University, in a recent address, pointed out that machines have thrown so many out of employment that soon all jobs will be taken by adults, leaving the adolescents in idleness. He suggested this means, either we must provide for their continuing in school or develop a vast body of delinquents and criminals. No doubt education must be radically changed and made to serve more directly the life needs of the student. But the choice between more education or more crime seems inescapable.

THE SEVERAL PARTS
In the Lives of Growing Children
By Mrs. Brooke P. Church

A CHILD'S life, far more than an adult's, is divided into parts. He cannot guide his various activities and mold them into a whole. First, he is a member of a household. He did not choose his environment or family, but for better or for worse must live in it, at all events until he is able to support himself—and must, furthermore, live under its control. Next, he is sent to school where again he has no choice, but is controlled and managed by others. Lastly, he chooses for himself a group of friends. In this environment he is more or less a free agent.

And none of these circles overlap. When the child goes to school he is divorced from home; when he plays with the "gang" neither home nor school has any relation to his activities. Yet all three groups are influencing him daily in all that he is becoming.

Often a mother will exclaim in despair at some expression or act on her child's part, "I don't see where he gets such ideas! He never learned them at home!"

Unless the home and family can act as liaison officer and weld the various parts of a child's life together keeping in touch with school and play, encouraging the child to talk of his outside interests, discuss his work, and bring his friends to his home, the home has failed in its function.

The child's preference will be for his friends, since they are his by choice and he feels free among them. It is well that this should be the case. Home and school he will outgrow, and eventually his personal, social life will determine his future. For the home to keep in touch with the child's friends, and as far as possible guide their choice, is most important.

There Are Plenty of Ideas

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

REPUBLICANS have a recovery plan. They want to recover too. Congressman Snell drafted a plan with more points than a mad porcupine. It can't be said that the Republicans have no constructive suggestions.

There are 20 ideas in the Snell glossary of hope and prosperity. That compares favorably with the leaves of an artichoke. You must discard some to get at the good ones.

The G. O. P. catalogue of recovery will not conflict with the Democratic plan. At least not until 1936.
